“Our customers are our top priority and we are committed to delivering great tasting snacks and confections that customers love. We are also committed to quality and safety, and have rigorous standards and quality control procedures in place. While we have not received any other reports, as soon as we learned of this matter, we immediately contacted the consumer to retrieve and test the product. We have confirmed that there was an inadvertent mixing of a small amount of another candy – natural mints – which are produced at the same facility using similar ingredients. We apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.”
