State Employee PAC Endorses Bipartisan Slate of Candidates
Members decide to stay out of governor, treasurer races

RALEIGH - The State Employees Association of North Carolina (SEANC) today announces bipartisan endorsements for the general election in November. The endorsements are made through SEANC's Employees Political Action Committee (EMPAC), which is a member-led subsidiary.

After interviewing all major party candidates for governor and treasurer, the EMPAC members responsible for endorsements decided to not endorse any candidates in those races.

For statewide office, EMPAC is endorsing the following candidates:

- Linda Coleman for lieutenant governor
- Elaine Marshall for secretary of state
- June Atkinson for state superintendent of the department of public instruction
- Beth Wood for state auditor

"Never in my tenure at SEANC have our members endorsed such a dynamic and extensively bipartisan group of legislative candidates," said SEANC Executive Director Dana Cope.

The 66 bipartisan endorsements in races for the General Assembly are a result of recommendations from SEANC members at the district level. Those recommendations were then confirmed by the statewide committee on Saturday. Those 66 endorsed candidates are:
