

Talk about a morning buzz. Recession hit Starbucks is going from being a coffee bar to a real bar. Wine and beer will soon be added to one of the Seattle stores. USA Today reports real sales of Menti beer and Merlot will be on the menu.

Prices are yet to be determined. Alcohol and coffee drinks are not expected to be added in the near future.

Starbucks executives concede some customers will not be happy with the decision. Even so, they are hoping new customers will be added.

Dani Crakter

WRAL- DAVID

It is always an extra pleasure to examine the writing of a lefty. Handedness of writing is never to be guessed at; that is why the good examiner will ask the client. In the evaluation process, it helps accurately judge slant and arrangement. The left handed writer has had to make adjustment to operate in the right-handed world. The fact that you can, and do modify to meet convention, is telling of desire, effort, and success to fit in; whether you shift your paper in a counterclockwise position to achieve your clear, legible, writing or not.

You have formal education. You are a realistic, practical and an independent thinker. You employ investigative/analytical thinking styles, have comprehensive speed, and can retain facts to memory. You are capable of setting high goals for yourself but this writing sample indicates that you deny a lot of your creative and intellectual ability. You are very competent—allow it.

Your arrangement shows stability, and respect for boundaries, a nice healthy sense of order. You are more critical of yourself than others. You example good control and operate with head over heart; emotionally you respond with thinking over reacting. There is a quiet pride about you and such dignity will not show hurt feelings easily.

You are persistent, even to the degree of defiance. You are generous. You use sarcasm. Your signature shows a self-protective stroke, pertaining to your family name.

I thank you for this opportunity.

Regina Underfer, CG
August 12, 2009