NC Republican Tillis Swimming Upstream in Desperate Bid to Hold US Senate Seat for Mitch McConnell's GOP Majority; Biden Edges Trump Today in Battle for Tar Heel State's Pivotal 15 Electoral College Votes, 27 Weeks Till Votes Are Counted:

In an election for President of the United States in North Carolina today, 04/27/2020, Democrat Joe Biden defeats Republican Donald Trump 50% to 45%, according to SurveyUSA's latest exclusive poll for WRAL-TV in Raleigh. Though the earliest votes will be counted is in 6 months and much could change in this most volatile and unusual of Presidential election years, Trump starts out in the hole to a man in his basement.

White voters back Trump by a 3:2 margin; black voters support Biden 7:1. Trump leads by 7 points among men; Biden leads by 15 among women -- a 22-point gender gap. Among suburban men, Trump leads Biden by 4 points. Among suburban women, Biden leads by 15. Among the subset of voters who say President Trump's handling of the Coronavirus is a "major factor" in how they will vote this fall, Biden leads 2:1. Among the voters who say Trump's handling of the virus is a "minor factor," Trump has a 4-point edge, 48% to 44%. Among those who say it's "not a factor at all," Trump leads 5:4.

Incumbent Republican United State Senator Thom Tillis today finishes 2 points behind Democrat Cal Cunningham in an election today, 41% to 39%, with 20% undecided. The contest has national implications, with a Tillis re-election essential of Republicans are to keep control of the US Senate and a Cunningham take-away being a central tenant of the Democratic party's plan to throw both Trump and Mitch McConnell out of power.

Tillis, elected in 2014, leads Cunningham -- but does not take a majority -- among men, whites, and voters age 50 to 64. Cunningham, an attorney and former State Senator, leads -- but does not take a majority -- among women, black and Hispanic voters, and voters age 35-49 and 65+. Tillis runs most strongly in Southern and Coastal NC, where he defeats Cunningham 5:3; Cunningham leads in greater Charlotte and Western NC, and in greater Raleigh, while the candidates tie in the Greensboro area. Today's 41% to 39% outcome among likely general election voters is within the survey's theoretical sampling error, which, along with other factors cited herein, makes the contest too-close-to-call at this hour. However: what is clear is that Tillis has none of the advantages of an incumbency, and if Donald Trump has any coat-tails in 2020, Tillis has yet to grab hold of them.

Incumbent Democratic Governor Roy Cooper wins a second term by 2:1 today, defeating incumbent Republican Lieutenant Governor Dan Forest 57% to 30%. Forest comes within 4 points of Cooper among voters 65+, but Cooper holds significant leads among voters age 18 to 64 and among both men and women. Forest is struggling with his base: while 92% of Republicans say they will vote for President Trump, and 72% of Republicans say they will vote for Thom Tillis for US Senate, just 62% of Republicans say they will vote for their party's candidate for Governor, with 1 in 4 defecting to vote for Democrat Cooper.

One possible factor in Forest's failure to date to connect with voters is the Coronavirus: Cooper's overall net job approval is up 23 points since SurveyUSA's last North Carolina poll, released 10 weeks ago, just before COVID-19 squeezed every candidate for 2020 public office off the front page and onto the back burner. Then, Cooper was at Plus 15, with 50% approving of the job the Governor was doing and 35% disapproving. Today, Cooper is at Plus 38; 65% approve, 27% disapprove. Among just Republicans, Cooper's Net Approval has gone from Plus 33 to Plus 50 during the past 10 weeks. By way of comparison, President Trump is even today; 49% say they approve of the job he is doing and 49% disapprove; Trump is up from Minus 7 ten weeks ago.

Incumbent US Senator Thom Tillis' Net Approval today is Plus 6, up from Minus 4.

About: SurveyUSA interviewed 700 adults from the state of North Carolina 04/23/20 through 04/26/20. Of the NC adults, 604 are registered to vote, and 580 are likely to vote in the November general election. In 2016, Trump carried North Carolina 50% to 46%, defeating Hillary Clinton. In 2012, Republican Mitt Romney carried the state, 50% to 48%, over incumbent President Barack Obama. Obama had managed to flip the state Blue by a handful of votes when Obama ran for his 1st term in 2008, edging John McCain.

Statement of Methodology: SurveyUSA is an independent, non-partisan, apolitical research company that conducts opinion surveys for media, academic institutions, commercial clients, non-profits, governments, agencies, and elected officials. SurveyUSA opinion research is conducted using a methodology optimized for each particular project. In some cases, this means data is collected 100% by telephone; in some cases, 100% online; and in other cases, a blend of the two. For those projects that are conducted "mixed-mode" (or "multi-mode"): Respondents who have a home (landline) telephone are interviewed by phone, sometimes using live interviewers, other times using the recorded voice of a professional announcer. The youngest male is requested on approximately 30% of calls to home phones, the youngest adult is requested on approximately 70% of calls. This method of intra-household selection reduces the potential for age and gender imbalance in the unweighted sample. Re-attempts are made to busy signals, no-answers, and answering machines. Landline telephone sample is purchased from Aristotle of Washington DC. Respondents who do not use a home telephone are interviewed on an electronic device, which means, for some projects, that call-center employees hand-dial cell phones and interview respondents verbally on the respondent's cell phone, and means, for other projects, that SurveyUSA displays the questions visually on the respondent's phone, tablet, or other device. Sample for respondents who do not use a home telephone is purchased from Aristotle or from one of several other research companies that provide access to cell respondents. Where meaningful, SurveyUSA indicates the percentage of respondents who use a home phone and the percentage who do not, and crosstabs by this distinction. Responses are minimally weighted to U.S. Census or voter file targets for gender, age and race. Target (cell) weighting is used. On questionnaires that ask about political party identification, SurveyUSA may or may not weight to Party ID, depending on client preference. Where necessary, questions and answer choices are rotated to prevent order bias, recency, and latency effects. On some studies, certain populations are over-sampled, so that the number of unweighted respondents exceeds the number of weighted respondents. Each individual SurveyUSA release contains the date(s) on which interviews are conducted and a release date. If interviewing for a particular study is conducted in Spanish, or in any other foreign language, it will be noted on the specific release. If no notation appears, interviews are conducted in English. Where respondents are filtered, such as adults, filtered to registered voters, in turn filtered to likely voters, SurveyUSA describes the filtering on the specific release. On pre-election polls in geographies with early voting, SurveyUSA differentiates between respondents who have already voted and those who are likely to vote but have not yet done so. On research completed prior to 12/31/16, SurveyUSA assigned to each question within the instrument a theoretical margin of sampling error. Effective 01/01/17, SurveyUSA assigns to each question within the instrument a credibility interval, which better reflects the sampling uncertainties associated with gathering some percentage of respondent answers using non-probability sample. Though commonly cited in the presentation of research results, "sampling error" is only one of many types of error that may influence the outcome of an opinion research study. More practical concerns include the way in which questions are worded and ordered, the inability to contact some, the refusal of others to be interviewed, and the difficulty of translating each questionnaire into all possible languages and dialects. Non-sampling errors cannot be quantified. This statement conforms to the principals of disclosure as recommended by the National Council on Public Polls (NCPP).
